Present Tally Four Lobbyists Per Legislator

By GRACIA McANDREW and DON WALTON Star Staff Writers

There are four lobbyists for each senator at the Nebraska Legislature.

Some lobbyists are hired to represent a number of organizations. Some are the full-time employes of a single organization. Some are volunteer spokesmen for a citizens group, a political action organization, a cause.

Some of the lobbyists spend money on senators for meals, refreshments and entertainment. Some do not.

A few are high-powered (but, most often, low-key), influential figures who move and shake the political structure of state government. The stakes for some of their clients can, over a period of time, be measured in the millions of dollars. And some lobbyists have little or no influence at all.

209 Lobbyists Register

All told, 209 lobbyists have registered with the 1975 Legislature to represent 299 organizations. There are 49 state

Each lobbyist pays a $25 registration fee for every client he or she represents.

Each must file monthly expense statements (as do the employers), listing expenditures which include "the payment of any bills for food, refreshments, entertainment, transportation or other services where members of the Legislature were included.

Sen. John Cavanaugh III of Omaha, who says lobbyist is "legitimate and necessary," has proposed a lobbyist reform bill which would broaden the reporting requirements to include all expenditures connected with lobbyist activities, including salaries paid to lobbyists for legislative services.

As old as U.S. independence itself — and perhaps even older — the term lobbyist was first applied to a representative of a special interest group. Promoting support of his cause, the representative "buttonholed" lawmakers in legislative lobbies, as well as in offices, restaurants, bars and homes.

All Kinds Of Approaches Lobbyists use all kinds of approaches in attempting to influence senators, but the most common is the individual conversation with a lawmaker, one-on-one. Sometimes, they work together.

Some 30 lobbyists sponsor a hospitality room for senators at 13th and J where drinks and snacks are available daily from 4 30 to 6:30 p.m. Fellowship is the order of the day, with "lobbying" strictly prohibited.

On Monday noons, Northwestern Bell Telephone Co., the Omaha Public Power District, the Nebraska Association of County Officials and Tews & Noren host an informal luncheon for any and all senators at the Executive Building across the street from the Statehouse.

Another lobbying fixture is the Nebraska Railroads Association suite at the Hadisson-Combusker Hotel, where lunch is available to senators on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

All of those expenditures are listed in lobbying reports. No One Swayed, Burbach Says

Free meals and refreshments have no effect at all in terms of influencing senators, Speaker Jules Burbach of Crofton in-

Lobbyists agree it is the contact, not the freebies, which is important.

The premier lobbyist in Nebraska is David Tews, a former (1957-61) senator, attorney and businessman (chiefly commercial real estate), whose headquarters are at the Executive

Together with his law partner, Charles Noren, Tews represents 19 clients this session. They range from the Buffalo County Livestock Improvement Association to OPPD and the Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Tews represents ophthalmologists, insurance agents, trial attorneys, architects, district court judges, motorcycle dealers, news media executives, certified public accountants, firemen and realtors.

'A Regular Monthly Retainer'

Most of his expenditure reports for January (the February reports are not due until mid-March) simply list the fact that he is working for "a regular monthly retainer," unspecified. "If the Legislature requests further information, I will promptly furnish the same," his reports say.

One employer, the Media of Nebraska, an organization of news media executives, lists Tews' monthly retainer as $400. Other employers do not cite any figure.

Disclosure of lobbying fees is not important, except to "fulfill some person's curiosity," Tews maintains.

Sifting through lobbying reports for one day, you will find that James Preston, lobbyist for the Nebraska Motor Carriers (truckers) Association, spent $524.77 in January for food and refreshments, mostly at the Nebraska Club, the hospitality room and Standard Market.

Edwin Miller and Philip Kenny, lobbyists for the Nebraska Railroads Association, listed $414.95 in January expenditures for food and refreshments, including $272.62 at the Radisson-Cornhusker and $92.33 for tobacco and candy from Gulley's Pharmacy. Rental for the railroad hospitality room was $138.

Women's Lobbyist Spends Nothing A lobbyist who does not spend money on senators is Yvonne Leung, who represents the Women's Lobby. Meals do not influence a senator's voting decisions, she believes, but they often do determine how much time a senator spends with the lobbyist. But the fobbyist is "only effective on issues in which there is no constituency input. You can't override the constituency,"

Leung pointed out. Research and detailed preparation are far more important to lobbyist success than a steak or a cocktail, Tews agrees. "You've got to know what your client wants, organize your presentation and present it to the senator in an orderly

"Remember, you are competing for that senator's time." And tell it all, Tews says.

"Give the entire picture to a senator, even if some of it works to your disadvantage.

"If you are to be successful, senators must be able to rely on what you say."

Young Tutors Help Teach Retarded Classmates

The steps leading from the parking lot to the front door of Hawthorne School are little and close together - built for little feet.

But the ideas behind that door are big, where 5th- and 6th-grade students are stepping eagerly to tutor their mentally retarded

In five months, they've built something much stronger than the school had counted on. Mentally retarded youngsters were "mainstreamed" last fall for the first time into the regular Hawthorne curriculum.

'My cousin, she's mentally retarded," said Ronnie Wallman, 11. "I know they need help, and that's why I chose to do this." A 6thgrader, Ronnie's specialty is teaching math, spelling and how to tell time from a clock.

"Half the time," said Sheri Nichols, 11, "I forget they're handicapped.

'You've got to have a lot of patience to work with those kids," said Sheri, also a 6thgrader. And she's learned too, she must "explain things better."

Team leader Judy Holtfreter, who adapted the program from a vanguard Wisconsin project, said both the tutors and their mentally retarded schoolmates have experienced "tremendous morale growth," improved punctuality and character development.

"Both seemed to benefit in terms of enhancement of self-concept," she said.

Witness Ronnie's comment, offered in a private interview: "It's made me feel proud of Principal Ruthelen Sittler said all the Hawthorne students feel very close to the tutoring program. It was launched after discussions with the kids revealed they wanted to make the mentally retarded pupils part of the Hawthorne learning environment.

Tutor's Pledge

If selected as a tutor, I hereby agree to fulfill my duties willingly and effectively. I realize that it is my responsibility to be prompt, courteous and efficient. I am aware that I can be removed from my job at any time if I fail to fulfill my obligations or if my behavior warrants removal.

As one result, Miss Sittler said, "The feeling they (tutors) have about the children is very positive." That, added Mrs. Holtfreter, makes the handicapped children's parents "feel much more a part of the school," as well as affecting the attitudes of younger nontutors "in the regular classroom."

While the "only requirement is to master a skill," ranging from physical education to art, an 11-year-old "can't just go down to a room, and help somebody," she said.

In emphasizing the responsibility involved, she first had the prospective tutors complete a written application, indicating "what they felt were their qualifications, why they would be a good tutor."

When some students modestly said that would be bragging, Mrs. Holtfreter told them they'll have to tell employers later "why you can do a good job." And the kids responded.

They also pledged to be prompt and courteous, and complete a training program to learn, for example, "how to correct something on the spot" to avoid reinforcing incorrect information, she said.

Ronnie explained: "You don't say, 'No, that's wrong.' That would make them feel bad." Rather, he'll "tell how good they did," after a correct response.

Tutoring sessions last 15 minutes a day during a three-week period. Sixty Hawthorne tutors give up class time in what they and their teachers determine is their strongest subject.

If a tutor is absent one day, an alternate steps in. And it's the tutors' responsibility "to keep tabs on each other." Mrs. Holtfreter said, because the mentally retarded students "get very dependent on them."

When the mentors finish each session, they must fill out a self-assessment checklist and have a follow-up meeting with their teachers. The teachers study how the tutoring has affected each mentally retarded child's classroom behavior and skills application

Tutors "are really not doing formal instruction" as a teacher replacement, Mrs. Holtfreter explained; rather, they reinforce skills "children are weak in." Principal Sittler noted that "sociability and interaction has really been the high point."

Sleepy Storm Blankets City

A sleepy snowstorm blanketed the city Sunday afternoon with about two inches of new snow. Lloyd Bomberger, superintendent of the Public Works Road Department, said he had called his snow removal crews into work but that it was unlikely a snow emergency would be called.

'We're plowing arterials for the second time," he said. "So far, everything has been south of us. I hope it stays there."

Several south Lincoln residences were without power for about 15 minutes Sunday night when a 4,800-volt line at the 29th and A street substation shorted out.

A Lincoln Electric System spokesman said the outage occurred in an area between A and Everett and 27th and 50th. He said the short-circuit was probably caused by snow and ice on equipment.

Lincoln police reported 44 traffic accidents between 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. Only a few of the accidents caused injuries and all the injuries were

Police said there were approximately 60 accidents from the time the snow began.

Heaviest snowfall in the state was reported in the Hastings area, with about 10 inches by late Sunday night.

A spokesman for the National Weather Service at Lincoln said radar indicated a 20-mile-wide band extended from Hastings to a point between Beatrice and Lincoln.

'It seems to be sitting still," he said, "which accounts for the heavy snow south of us.'

Sgt. Laurence Johnson of the Hastings Police Department said area residents were being urged to stay at home but that most roads were still passable.

The Nebraska State Patrol reported all roads in southeast Nebraska snowpacked. No serious accidents had been reported.

Six inches of snow was reported at Hallam, three inches at Syracuse, four inches at Holdrege and one inch of new snow at Grand Island.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal narcotics agents conducted themselves in an unprofessional manner in failing to pursue a lead linking financier Robert L. Vesco to a heroin smuggling scheme, according to a report by Senate investigators. However, the 200-page report released Sunday by the staff of the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations concluded it could not substantiate allegations that the Nixon administration covered up the 1973 case or that Vesco was in fact part of the drug scheme.

At the time, Vesco was under federal indictment on charges involving a $200,000 Nixon campaign contribution in an alleged attempt to influence an investigation of his activities by the Securities and Exchange Commission. The case stems from allegations made to the subcommittee, in October 1973, by a government informant, Franklin Peroff. Peroff said that agents of the Drug Enforcement Administration had abruptly terminated a major narcotics investigation when he produced evidence that Vesco was the financial backer of a scheme to smuggle 100 kilograms of heroin from France into the United States.

The drug case was ended in July 1973, two months after a federal grand jury in New York had indicted Vesco along with former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans in connection with the $200,000 contribution.

Mitchell and Stans subsequently were acquitted, while efforts to extradite Vesco from the Bahamas and Costa Rica failed.

In a statement accompanying the staff report, subcommittee chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said that "by their performance in the Peroff matter ... by their inconsistent testimony before the subcommittee, by their fierce determination to defend obvious incompetence by their own personnel, DEA officials have shown themselves to be deserving of responsible criticism.'

For that reason," Jackson added, "I have directed that the staff continue its investigation into the over-all efficiency of DEA."

The subcommittee said it verified

that Peroff had presented federal agents with a tape recording of a Montreal man named Conrad Bouchard telling him to fly to Costa Rica where he would pick up $300,000 from Vesco or from Norman LeBlance, a close associate of Vesco's. Instead of allowing Peroff to go through with the plan, drug agents withdrew the use of the private Lear jet Peroff was to have used, the subcommuttee said.

According to the report, Peroff then recounted the case to both a Secret Service agent at the White House and a member of the U.S. attorney's office in New York, which had brought the indictment against Mitchell, Stans and Vesco. Four days later, Peroff was arrested on a year-old warrant from Florida for cashing bad checks, the investigators found.

The report concluded that "Peroff was right when he said federal agents did not properly investigate the Vesco-LeBlance lead.' As an example of "unprofessional conduct" the subcommittee report cited the fact that no records were kept on the Vesco lead in "blatant violation of DEA rules." ... NEWSPAPERARCHIVE® the drug scheme. At the time, Vesco was under federal indictment on charges involving a $200,000 Nixon campaign contribution in an alleged attempt to influence an investigation of his activities by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The case stems from allegations made to the subcommittee, in October 1973, by a government informant, Franklin Peroff. Peroff said that agents of the Drug Enforcement Administration had abruptly terminated a major narcotics investigation when he produced evidence that Vesco was the financial backer of a scheme to smuggle 100 kilograms of heroin from

The drug case was ended in July 1973, two months after a federal grand jury in New York had indicted Vesco along with former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans in connection with the $200,000 contribution. Mitchell and Stans subsequently were acquitted, while efforts to extradite Vesco from the Bahamas and Costa Rica failed.

In a statement accompanying the staff report, subcommittee chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said that "by their performance in the Peroff matter ... by their inconsistent testimony before the subcommittee, by their fierce determination to defend obvious incompetence by their own personnel, DEA officials have shown themselves to be deserving of responsible criticism.'

For that reason," Jackson added, "I have directed that the staff continue its investigation into the over-all efficiency of DEA.'

The subcommittee said it verified

that Peroff had presented federal agents with a tape recording of a Montreal man named Conrad Bouchard telling him to fly to Costa Rica where he would pick up $300,000 from Vesco or from Norman LeBlance, a close associate of Vesco's. Instead of allowing Peroff to go through with the plan, drug agents withdrew the use of the private Lear jet Peroff was to have used, the subcommittee said.

According to the report, Peroff then recounted the case to both a Secret Service agent at the White House and a member of the U.S. attorney's office in New York, which had brought the indictment against Mitchell, Stans and Vesco. Four days later, Peroff was arrested on a year-old warrant from Florida for cashing bad checks, the investigators found.

The report concluded that "Peroff was right when he said federal agents did not properly investigate the Vesco-LeBlance lead."

As an example of "unprofessional conduct" the subcommittee report cited the fact that no records were kept on the Vesco lead in "blatant violation of DEA rules.'

Days May Be Numbered For Cambodian President

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) - A campaign to oust President Lon Nol is gathering momentum amid mounting criticism of him from the legislature and high civilian and military officials. Well-informed sources say he might be pressured into stepping down.

Many observers and officials here believe the semiparalyzed, six-star field marshal's days are numbered but the key questions are when he would go and how.

Lon Nol spends most of his time in his fortified presidential palace insulated by an army of advisers and friends and has little idea of the gravity of his situation, the sources say. He leaves the palace rarely for flying trips around the Phnom Penh enclave in a convoy bristling with arms.

Lon Nol received some foreign newsmen at his palace Sunday, but his only words, according to one journalist, were "I wish you a nice morning," and "thank you." The meeting was an apparent effort to squelch rumors that he had fled to Thailand.

Some of the staff in the U.S. embassy speak of him with contempt. Sources say embassy civilian staff members recommended getting rid of Lon Nol as far back as 1973 but military elements in the embassy prevailed.

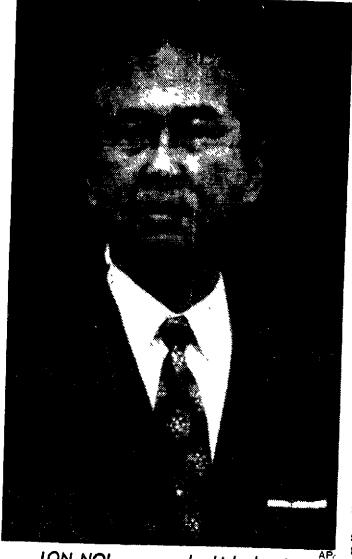

Some sources indicate the embassy is moving behind the scenes now, passing the word to legislators and government officials that they would not be sorry to see Lon Nol go as soon as possible, but they fear to intervene too openly lest they be accused of meddling.

Although some Cambodian generals have been vocal in private about favoring a coup, and although coup rumors are circulating, wellinformed sources say the Americans have let it be known they are adamantly against a coup on grounds that it would create instability at a time when strength and unity are needed. Also, it could alienate the U.S. Congress by showing a lack of seriousness in government or "drawingroom politics" and thus further jeopardize U.S.

"Ninety per cent of the government and the army want Lon Nol to resign," said one highranking Cambodian official. His views were echoed in conversations with three government ministers, a number of legislators and several and a researcher at the energy lab of MIT's Alfred P. Sloan School of Management. He said the natural gas model cost $550,-000 to develop. On Tuesday, MacAvoy is scheduled to testify on the natural gas shortage before a House Ways and Means Committee energy hearing. The FPC recently set a nationwide ceiling of 50 cents per thousand cubic feet on the price of newly drilled gas. If federal controls were removed, this price would rise to 90 cents, MacAvoy said.

However, controls would remain on gas found in previous years, and when this was mixed with the new gas, the average wholesale price to pipeline companies in 1980 would be 84 cents.

If current pricing policies continue, the average wholesale price in 1980 would be 69 cents. The current price is 51 cents.

The computer model, created with a grant from the National Science Foundation, is used primarily by the federal government to test the effect of various pricing proposals.

Among other policies examined were taxes on consumption and subisides for gas MacAvoy, an economist, is a professor of public management and a researcher at the energy lab of MIT's Alfred P. Sloan School of Management. He said the natural gas model cost $550,-000 to develop.

On Tuesday, MacAvoy is scheduled to testify on the natural gas shortage before a House Ways and Means Committee energy hearing.

The FPC recently set a nationwide ceiling of 50 cents per thousand cubic feet on the price of newly drilled gas. If federal controls were removed, this price would rise to 90 cents, MacAvoy said.

However, controls would remain on gas found in previous years, and when this was mixed with the new gas, the average wholesale price to pipeline companies in 1980 would be 84 cents. If current pricing policies continue, the average wholesale price in 1980 would be 69 cents.

The current price is 51 cents. The computer model, created with a grant from the National Science Foundation, is used primarily by the federal government to test the effect of various pricing proposals. Among other policies examined were taxes on consumption and subisides for gas producers.

The Last-Ditch Appeal

President Ford has quite a selling job to do if he is to swing Congress around to the point of authorizing additional military aid to Indochina - unless, of course, members of Congress act independently of the wishes of their constituents.

Ford and Secy. of State Kissinger are giving it their best - arguing that the fate of not only Cambodia but all of Asia, and the good name of the United States as well, depends upon that $222 million supplemental appropriation. It can be argued that such a paltry amount will not purchase back America's good name, which was besmirched in many eyes because of the long, fruitless presidential war fought in Southeast Asia in support of a policy long since regarded as bankrupt by most of the rest of the world. Still, the Ford administration argues that our honor is at

We don't think many of the American people are buying that argument. We think the majority of people in this country now are not thinking so much about that particular concept of honor — in terms of standing by commitments the people themselves didn't make and don't support - but rather about regaining respect as a nation which, while powerful, is a little more choosy about what it gets in to. They are beginning to realize that the immediate post-war American fantasy-turned-policy of remaking the entire world in this nation's image is turning out more and more to be fantasy.

The most difficult thing, of course, is to see and hear about the civilian suffering, the injured or dead peasants and starving children in the Phnom Penh battle area, and still speak out against more aid. The administration is trading on the inherent sympathy and decency of the American people in that regard and it is unfair.

One of the points that opponents of aid make is that suffering will be alleviated only when the fighting stops and we tend to think that is true. If one looks only for the worst in Cambodia or Vietnam, he can be given two equally horrible alternatives bloodbath before an insurgent victory or bloodbath after. In that case, what is the point of dragging it out?

Perhaps the appeals by an administration desperate to keep its policy alive and kicking (while Cambodians and Vietnamese die) will work and some amount of aid will be granted by Congress in excess of what has already been granted.

But the people are against such aid. One poll released this weekend showed that the public by more than a 6-1 ratio are against additional aid to South Vietnam and Cambodia. Much of the opposition is based on the fear it would lead to reinvolvement in Southeast Asia on a major

The President makes assurances that that won't be the case. Even so, the latest Harris poll shows that 65% of the American people oppose U.S. military aid in general, only 22% support it while the remainder are undecided.

If Congress grants more aid, it will be in the face of overwhelming public opposi-

Truth Unreasonable?

We're not prepared to say that special referee John Kuns' recommendation for reprimand but not disbarment for G. Bradford Cook is mismatching punishment and erime. Former Judge Kuns' conclusion may be just, compassionate (certainly) and entirely appropriate.

What worries us about the Kuns opinion which will be forwarded to the Nebraska Supreme Court goes far beyond the issue of Cook and his part in the Vesco case. Our concern is with the limits of discipline Kuns — a respected former state district judge - would impose upon the bar, which is largely a self-disciplining Kuns suggested that "it would be unreasonable to impose upon the entire bar a rule that every lawyer must at all times and in all circumstances be completely truthful and accurate in every statement that he makes, whether under oath or not."

In other words, "keep as close to the truth as you can, but when you can't, we'll make allowances." The Boy Scout oath demands more than that.

What titans of principle are Nebraska's leaders of the bar! We have Sen. Hruska making a case for mediocrity on the Supreme Court and now Judge Kuns sanctioning untruthfulness — if it is infrequent and well-meant, of course.

Professor Spoofing?

Taylor, Neb. I would like to know where Mr. Bert Evans, an associate professor of economics at the University of Nebraska, received his information on the price of cattle.

Come on, Mr. Evans, I'll sell you our entire cow herd and I will give you all the new born calves to boot at the price you quoted in the Lincoln Star Feb. 27, which was $400. Then you can sell the same cows for $600 (the figure you quoted) and deduct your own capital gains.

Just a little inside information, Mr. Evans: Be prepared to show a loss of from $150 to $200 instead of a capital gain. I would, also, like to inform Mr. Evans that the price of wheat and corn at the Lincoln markets on Feb. 27 was $3.53 and $2.40. With your way of thinking that would make wheat $7.06 a bushel and corn $4,80.

But grain isn't near this high and neither is the cow market. So, let's get with it - gather your information from the people who know, the farmers and ranchers themselves.

The present law purports to protect victims of rape In reality, it does not. Right now, if a woman brings charges she is often treated with as much suspicion as the alleged assailant Also, a victim has little right to privacy. As a result, many victims of rape (including boys and men) are afraid to report the crime. LB23 recognizes the right to privacy and eliminates references to the need of corroboration.

If we are truly concerned about the protection of people against sexual crimes, it is essential that LB23 is passed. When this bill becomes a law, it will broaden the scope not only to protect victims of rape, but to protect all people victimized by sexual assault.

Lesson In Psychology

Omaha, Neb. The last time I was called to municipal court Jury duty, I witnessed as a spectator a case which caused me to laugh. The accused was charged with drunkenness, disorderly conduct and resisting arrest. When the jury was being picked, the defending attorney stressed three points (1) Thank God, Americans don't have to live under a police state, (2) There is no law against drmking alcoholic beverages, (3) If you were sitting in the defendant's chair, would you want a group of your peers weighing all testimony fairly, even if it meant opposing and deciding against several police officers?

The defending lawyer was very clever. The jury saw themselves on trial, found themselves innocent and set the accused free. As the lawyer often repeated: "How would you feel if this happened to you?" You could almost see tears in the jurors' eyes. The testimony of four police officers describing the battle they had had and the abuse, both verbal and physical, they had suffered went for naught. (They had singled this man out at two in the morning and were picking on him ) The lawyer said that the resistance came before the arrest, not after (because he was not arrested until he was taken to the police station). The prosecution should have pointed out that a potential arrest is taking place the minute an officer questions you. The last instruction from judge to jury was: "If you find the defendant innocent of one charge, then he is innocent of all three charges against him."

It was a good lesson in psychology as well as law

"You Know Where We Went Wrong? We Didn't Try To Steal The U.S. Government"

WASHINGTON - In recent years prominent figures in the news have begun peddling their appearances on television for fat fees, and even the Soviet government will now sell you a TV act by a tame poet if you'll pay their price

At first glance this seems no more commercial than, say, the New York Times buying the newspaper publication rights to Winston Churchill's memoirs, but when CBS pays around $25,-000 for an hour's interview with H R. Haldeman, this raises some awkward questions.

Isn't this a dangerous precedent? Isn't it buying, not a property, like memoirs, but buying news? If CBS will pay this kind of money for Haldeman, won't other big shots or notorious characters demand their price? And what will this do to the little stations that can't atford to pay the freight?

These questions are not for NBC nor ABC, who say they are no longer buying politicians like actors, nor are they addressed to Haldeman. He is a private citizen and has every right to sell his story to the highest bidder, but CBS which is forever (and properly) demanding equal rights under the First Amendment, is now introducing the unequal principle that news belongs to the outfit with the biggest bankroll.

CBS says it does not buy news, but only "memoir-type broadcasts," like its excellent interviews with late Presidents Eisenhower and Johnson, but Mike Wallace, who interviewed Haldeman, is not the sort to waste much time on Bob Haldeman's childhood or his politicians discussing the lectures on moral philosophy ☆ ☆ ☆

Aspects Of War In The Land Of Eternal Summer

LINCOLN - Like a drawn sword, the danger of spreading guerrilla warfare hangs over the Philippine Islands. Few of us are informed of its cause and history. which is as complicated as it is interesting Due to President Marcos' stringently controlled news media, only a comparatively limited number of the Commonwealth's own 40 million citizens are fully aware of the danger under which they live.

The unrest lies in the areas of the country's second largest Island, Mindanao, in the southern Philippines and along the Sulu Island chain that extends, like a curved necklace, to within fifty miles of the Malaysian State of Sabah (formerly North Borneo) These islands are the historic homes of the Moro, from Spanish meaning Moor, whom China has traded with since the First Century.

☆ ☆ ☆ Six hundred years ago, in the 1830's, an Arab teacher who had crossed China visited these Indonesian pagans. He reported finding an affinity among the natives for his Islamic doctrines which made it easy for later Mohammedan missionary conquerors from Borneo to convert them to the "True Faith."

The new converts — like the Eighth-Century Moors who invaded Spain and threatened Europe - wished to share their new belief with all the island peoples. Moving constantly northward they found, even without the sword's conviction, that the Creed won converts The southern archipelago became Mohammedan within a century. In time the entire 1,100-mile-long Philippine area, with its 7,100 islands and islets, had the promise of becoming Mohammedan. But further advancement was prevented by the dramatic emergence of Catholic Spain on the scene in the Sixteenth Cen-

Now, for three hundred years, the chilling cry of "Hay mora en la costa" ("There are Moros on the coast!") was beard in Luzon.

Moros, equally fearful of Spanish sorties, built strong fortifications on Mindanao. Both sides, between quickly broken treaties, slew, burnt, enslaved, looted and took tribute "for the greater glory of God." War between the Crescent and the Cross drained and arrested the progress of both antagonists. **☆ ☆ ☆

Spain finally concluded she could never subdue a people who were not overawed by overwhelming force and whose religion caused them to value reckless bravery in battle greater than life itself. The toll on her strength, like America's involvement in Vietnam, became too great. Satisfied with having stopped the northward advance of Mohammedanism at Mindanao, Spain signed a final peace treaty, giving self-administration of all internal affairs to the Moros. It was this treaty America inherited in 1899, when she took over Philippine administration after the Spanish-American War.

The first easing of native tensions in 361 years occurred in 1903, when General Leonard Wood designated the Moro country a province with its own Mohammedan laws Only certain basic American principals, such as regarding slavery, were retained.

The success of the new policy was emphasized when the Moros, upon request, turned in their weapons of war upon promise of American protection from the Filipinos.

Unfortunately the trend toward peaceful co-existence was only of ten-year duration. Harrison, a new governorgeneral, reversed American policy when he applied the same tax and legal system to all Philippine territory. Being ignorant of Philippine history and consequently believing Moros were "merely backward Filipinos," he now brought them under Filipino law.

4 4 4 The unarmed Moros found quick justification for apprehension. They now experienced taxation without representation and arrests upon manufactured Filipmo pretexts to get free land. Picturesque Mindanoa again became a place of fear. A Moro chieften reminisced,

. . . controls news media

"Day by day the Americans left us and Filipinos took their places. It was our country no longer but Filipino country governed by Filipino law."

The government regarded the Moros as semi-civilized. They also feared them. The Moslems, in turn said "Filipinos were fit only for slavery." Such opposing views were like those of the contemporary Palestinians and Israelites: a mixture of fire and dynamite!

Consequently, each year the Moros became increasingly bitter as the commonwealth, with modern weapons against now poorly armed Moslems, kept Mindanoa open for development. Christian settlers swallowed up much of the historical native farmland to raise 60% of the country's corn. Lumber, coconuts, hemp and rice were also obtained in quantities from areas the Moros considered theirs.

President Fernando Marcos' declaration of martial law in 1972, followed by massive arrests of political opponents, journalists and leftists also affected the Moros. They now lost what little political influence they had possessed and felt they were being subjected to race genocide through starvation. Twenty thousand fled to Sabah.

女 女 女 The new fear among the 2.5 million Moslems caused a quick sublimation of old tribal differences. United, they concluded the only solution was to fight for independence or greater autonomy through guerrilla war.

Support for their cause came from an unexpected source: the oil-wealth of Libya. This desert country purchased modern military weapons from European arms makers and consigned them to Sabah. Here its Moslem ruler, Tun Datu Haja Mustapha, provides training for their use and teaches the techniques of North Vietnam type warfare.

The dissident Moro leaders are young, often college educated and dedicated. They feel time is on their side That if their Mohammedan ancestors could hold Spain at bay for three centuries, they should be able to do as much against Mar-

Statistics indicate some measure of success, with over half a million refugees and a tie-up of most of the Philippine army in portions of the Mindanoa area. Fatalities were reported at 2,400 in the past year. The Philippine economy also suffered by having a part of its grain supply cut off by the hit-and-run fighting.

Should help for the guerrillas come in from other Moslem countries, such as Malaysia, the war could expand into a wider scope that the Marcos dictatorship can handle. It could then assume such international complications as Korea, Vietnam or the Near East confrontations. Should this occur, another dark and bloody chapter of history could be in the making for the Philippines and the world.

The unarmed Moros found quick justification for apprehension. They now experienced taxation without representation and arrests upon manufactured Filipino pretexts to get free land. Picturesque Mindanoa again became a place of fear. A Moro chieften reminisced,

"Day by day the Americans left us and Filipinos took their places. It was our country no longer but Filipino country governed by Filipino law.'

The government regarded the Moros as semi-civilized. They also feared them. The Moslems, in turn said "Filipinos were fit only for slavery." Such opposing views were like those of the contemporary Palestinians and Israelites: a mixture of fire and dynamite!

Consequently, each year the Moros became increasingly bitter as the commonwealth, with modern weapons against now poorly armed Moslems, kept Mindanoa open for development. Christian settlers swallowed up much of the historical native farmland to raise 60% of the country's corn. Lumber, coconuts, hemp and rice were also obtained in quantities from areas the Moros con-

The new fear among the 2.5 million Moslems caused a quick sublimation of old tribal differences. United, they concluded the only solution was to fight for independence or greater autonomy through guerrilla war.

Support for their cause came from an unexpected source: the oil-wealth of Libya. This desert country purchased modern military weapons from European arms makers and consigned them to Sabah. Here its Moslem ruler, Tun Datu Haja Mustapha, provides training for their use and teaches the techniques of North Vietnam type warfare.

The dissident Moro leaders are young often college educated and dedicated. They feel time is on their side. That if their Mohammedan ancestors could hold Spain at bay for three centuries, they should be able to do as much against Mar-

Statistics indicate some measure of success, with over half a million refugees and a tie-up of most of the Philippine army in portions of the Mindanoa area. Fatalities were reported at 2,400 in the past year. The Philippine economy also suffered by having a part of its grain supply cut off by the hit-and-run fighting.

Should help for the guerrillas come in from other Moslem countries, such as Malaysia, the war could expand into a wider scope that the Marcos dictatorship can handle. It could then assume such international complications as Korea, Vietnam or the Near East confrontations. # Full Bankruptcy For ABP Urged Omaha (UPI)-A cattle feeder bankruptcy, the chances of getholding some $1 million in rubber checks from American Beef Packers Inc. said Sunday night the firm should file for full bankruptcy and "get this thing over with.

"In my opinion," said Louis Dinklage of Wisner, "the longer they go on the worse it will get. Maybe I'm wrong.'

American Beef left cattle feeders holding up to $25 million in insufficient fund checks when it filed limited bankruptcy in Omaha Jan. 7. Under Chapter 11, American Beef was allowed to continue in operations but only has done so on a limited basis.

"It would be plumb silly for anyone to sell their cattle to American Beef now," Dinklage said. "It seems to me some American Beef officials knew something was wrong before they filed bankruptcy.

A spokesman for the 11member, feeder-dominated creditors committee in ABP's bankruptcy action, however, reaffirmed the committee's intentions to get some ABP plants back into operation and some

"Not all the feeders enjoy the financial status that Mr. Dinklage does," the spokesman said, "and they could really be hurt by a full bankruptcy action.

Dinklage, who owns and operates major feedlot facilities and is president of the 1st National Bank of Wisner, said most all of his dealings have been with Iowa Beef Processors of Dakota City.

"We sold American Beef 2,490 head during a four-day period in late December and the checks bounced," Dinklage said. "And the only reason we sold to them was because American Beef was paying more than anyone else and Iowa Beef was filled up."

Dinklage noted American Beef has failed to keep its custom slaughtering operation going at Fort Morgan, Colo., and has only one of its six plants, that being "If it goes to straight the Oakland, Iowa, facility, operational at all.

It was learned Sunday night that ABP had sent a lease agreement for the Fort Morgan plant to a group of Colorado feeders but no response had yet been

In addition, Dinklage said he was "concerned" about General Electric Credit Corp., ABP's largest secured creditor, laying claim to money loaned to ABP on cattle that weren't paid for.

"I would have rather given the cattle away to the poor people in Omaha and Council Bluffs,". Dinklage said, "than to General Electric Credit."

The creditors committee spokesman said the Dinklage operation was probably holding more insufficient fund checks than any other single feeder.

Dinklage was the first major cattle feeder to suggest openly that American Beef file full bankruptcy but said he had no plans at present to seek a change.

'That's all up to the bankruptcy judge," Dinklage said. "They can't exist the way they've operated this thing.

"The plants are there and somebody should run them. They're worth something by Fred R. "Bob" Sikyta Mr. "B" president of Bryant Air Conditioning and Heating

You can prevent mechanical breakdowns, get more prompt service, and in general insure efficient heating and cooling comfort yearround.

The way to do it is simple . . . buy a Bryant "Maintenance Agreement "For $28 50 a year you can have pre-season check-ups of both the furnace and air conditioner. Fourteen critical areas are checked on the furnace and sixteen areas checked on the air conditioner. At the time we are doing these check-ups, we can determine whether or not your unit is performing at peak efficiency and also detect shortcomings

When your heating and cooling equipment is operating at full maximum efficiency it will pay you back as you save energy in doing this. Seed dealers in Lincoln report anywhere from a 20% to 100% increase in seed sales over last year, while seed sales throughout the nation are running about 30% ahead of 1974.

Addie Kinghorn of Earl May Seeds said there has been a "real rush" on seeds this year and estimated that the increase was between 20% and 30% over last

'Could Be Problem'

She said Earl May's stores aren't out of any seeds and don't anticipate running out in the near future. "But if the rush continues like it has, there could be a problem '

The store has difficulty getting a few varieties but there hasn't been a problem with getting seeds in general, she reported.

Mrs Eva Statler of Statler Garden Center said there is definitely an increase in the number of new gardeners "who are tearing up their yards to plant gardens this year'

She said she had not no problem getting most seeds but had found it difficult to get butternut squash seeds, because of last year's crop failure.

People are buying peas, beans and corn in larger quantities than usual, she said.

A spokesman for Williams Garden Center said that seed business there had increased at least 20% this year.

The store has had no problem getting seeds, he said, but if there is difficulty it won't be known until it is necessary to reorder on some.

Last year there was a shortage of bean and pea seeds and of tomato and onion plants, and many people are buying these early this year, according to

"As long as they're coming in to buy these, they buy whatever they're going to need for the entire garden," one dealer noted.

A Campbell's Nurseries employe said that business there had doubled this year over last year and gardeners are buying $8 and $10 worth of seed at a time.

All dealers indicated there are many new gardeners, including young and old, who are taking up the avocation for the first time. 8 Million Gardeners

Novice Gardeners Seek Space

By GERRY SWITZER Star Staff Writer

With the beginning of March. veteran gardeners turn their fancy toward that plot of ground out

But this year, many who have never considered gardening are looking for somewhere to raise a few vegetables to help cut food

In fact, many Lincoln apartment dwellers are seeking out gardening space, and complex residents. Space Is Problem

A few apartment complex managers say that no space is available adjacent to the apartments but many are trying to provide garden plots if there is available space.

A spokesman for Georgetown Apartments said that there have been many requests for garden space and that the management is hoping to develop some of the Millions of Americans with visions of ripe red tomatoes and leafy green lettuce at a fraction of the supermarket cost are buying seeds and getting ready for spring planting. But the experts warn that beginning gardeners face plenty of pitfalls.

President Ford urged people to plant gardens to help fight inflation and the White House said this week that it is considering its own vegetable plot to set an example. Derek Fell, director of the National Garden Bureau and a member of Ford's "Whip Inflation Now" garden task force, has designed a 15- by 25-foot garden plot that he estimates could produce vegetables worth $200. The cost, he estimates, is about $40 in equipment and $11.15 in

Another NU Season

It's hard to find much fault with the recently-completed season coach Joe Cipriano's Nebraska basketball team experienced in the Big Eight.

It wasn't a champiouship year, yet a fourth-place finish was probably where the Huskers rightfully belonged, viewing the entire conference.

After attending the league's annual pre-season tournament in late December in Kansas City, Mo., we probably (as it turned out) were overly generous in predicting Nebraska to finish second behind the eventual league champion, Kansas. That was based on Nebraska dropping a 63-62 verdict in the final 12 seconds to KU in a semifinal match.

While the Huskers gave a tremendous effort in that contest, it was an accurate foreshadowing of the future.

Nebraska lost two overtime games in league play and both were at home (to Oklahoma and to Kansas). The Huskers also dropped two one-pointers - at Colorado and at Kansas State. When you keep faltering in the close ones, it's hard to remain in title contention. Kansas demonstrated this year as it did last year, that the team that wins the close contests will be the

Highs, Lows

Nevertheless, here are what we consider the main highlights of this year's Nebraska' season and next season's out-

BEST GAMES - As far as victories, the 68-61 win at Oklahoma had to be the most impressive conference win of the season. It proved Nebraska could win away from the NU Coliseum and at the same time, it kept the Huskers unbeaten and in first place. As far as losses, it is doubtful if any game had more drama and excitement than the two narrow losses to Kansas, the Kansas City game and the 79-77 double overtime affair which ended the Lincoln season last Wednesday.

WORST GAME — again, no question. The 72-44 debacle at Kansas, where Nebraska may have performed as poorly in a league game as in the 12 years Cipriano has been in Lincoln. The nonconference December loss at home to San Jose State was

BIGGEST SURPRISE — The fine play from sophomore Rickey Harris and freshman Eric Coard. Harris, a forward, and Coard, a guard, undoubtedly will be key participants on next year's team.

BIGGEST DISAPPOINTMENT — the continuing saga in the Ron Taylor case. Cipriano eventually was more willing to discuss the 6-10 sophomore center, but it still remained a troublesome situation throughout the season. Taylor was a big favorite with the students, yet never played much except in isolated cases.

BEST INDIVIDUAL EFFORT — a tie between the 40-point game Jerry Fort enjoyed against Missouri in Lincoln and the constant hustling performances by senior Steve Erwin. In setting a Nebraska one-game scoring record, Fort was the major factor in Nebraska's topping the Tigers, 80-77. But Erwin, who admittedly possessed less natural talent than the players he faced each game, played with such intensity that he usually overcame the superior talent.

BIGGEST 1975-76 NEED - finding a big man for the frontline. It could be Ron Taylor or, perhaps, a junior college prospect but the Huskers desperately need a big man to provide more rebounding strength.

BIGGEST 1975-76 STRENGTH — NU may have the best three guards in the Big Eight next season. Fort, senior-to-be Steve Willis and Coard make NU set in the backline. 1976 OUTLOOK-if the frontline scoring problem can be corrected, Nebraska will be a definite threat for the Big Eight title. The soon-to-be-released nonconference schedule should more than adequately prepare the Huskers for the 14-game league schedule.

Prep Sports Editor Sidney basketball fans can rest easy now. They'll be able to watch both Sidney and Sidney St. Pat's compete in the 65th annual State High School Basketball Tournament this week in Lin-

Thanks to the luck of draw in a pairings meeting Sunday morning at the Nebraska School Activities Assoc. office in Lincoln, Sidney's two teams will play during different sessions. Sidney's 18-4 Western Conference championship club will open the Class B tournament against 17-4 Crete at noon Thursday at Pershing After watching the Red Raiders there.

Sidney fans can head for Lincoln East High School Thursday night for top-seeded St. Pat's Class D matchup with Sterling at 9 o'clock. Sidney is the only Nebraska community with two schools represented in the state tour-

Last year, Class B West Point Central

Catholic and Class C West Point divided that community's loyalties by playing their state tourney openers at the same time.

West Point CC earned a repeat state tourney trip, gaining Class B's top seed with a 22-2 record. Only six other teams return from last year's 32-team state tourney field.

Defending state champion Omaha Central earned Class A's top seed with a 21-1 record and will open the tourney Thursday at 2 p.m. against Norfolk after Lincoln Southeast and Omaha Burke collide at noon at the Colliseum.

Class A's North Platte and Ornaha Burke. Class B's Crete and Ord and Class C's Grant are other returnees from 1974's state tourney.

Class B offers one its most interesting tournaments in recent years with season-long ratings leader Omaha Tech competing out of Class A for the first time in the athletic-rich school's history.

Tech is the seventh-seeded Class B entry with its 18-5 record. The Trojans, who played only four Class B opponents this season, open against second-seeded Ord at 9 p.m. Thursday.

Tech's bracket is power-packed. Rated Minden and Aurora are paired in Thursday night's other opening-round matchup. The NSAA announced Sunday it has altered its semifinal format from previous years. Class A and B semifinals are set for 2 p.m. and 9 p.m. Friday instead of noon and 7 p.m. as they were in the past.

Classes C and D now will occupy the noon and 7 p.m. semifinal slots on Friday, splitting the Coliseum and Pershing sites with Classes A Southeast's opening-round test against Burke will mark the second meeting of the season between the two schools. Burke scored a 66-54 win over the Knights Feb. 1 in Omaha.

'We hope to make up for that one," Southeast coach Wally McNaught said Sunday. We've sort of prided ourselves on good ball handling, but we committed 33 turnovers up there against them.

"We seemed to be able to break their press,

but couldn't convert," he added.

McNaught called Saturday night's 50-42 Southeast win over Lincoln Northeast in the district finals "a big hurdle to clear. I hope we're more relaxed because from here on is the gravy in one context."

The Southeast coach credited his players for year-round work in helping the Knights earn their first state tourney ticket in 15 years. "It sounds like a fairy tale, but these kids can be a model for a lot of young kids who want to follow in their footsteps," McNaught said of

"As soon as basketball was over last year, they started working out for this season." McNaught noted. "They played and lifted weights during the spring.

"They helped organize that high school league at the Y last summer," he added. "In fact, we had four teams playing in that league. "Of course, these kids were sneaking down to other places last fall to play," McNaught said. "They just wanted to get on a court. They've worked hard. The self-discipline has paid off."

Nelson Hoping To Be First And Last Coliseum 'D' Winner

By RANDY YORK Prep Sports Editor

In the first state high school basketball tournament played in Nebraska's Coliseum in 1926, Nelson won the Class D championship. Neison (population 700) has a chance to be the Coliseum's last state Class D champion this weekend, too, since the 1976 tourney will be moved to the new University of Nebraska Fieldhouse now in the later stages of construction at the State Fairgrounds.

In the 49 years between the first and last state tournament at the Coliseum, Nelson basketball fans have eaten a lot of pop-

Their cheers have been absent from the Coliseum for the last time Nelson qualified for the state tournament. "Two of the starters on that 1926 team are still living in Nelson," Nelson coach Wayne Gumaer points out. Harry Snyder, a retired Nuckolls County machine operator, almost half a century. Ironically, that 1926 championship was and Ralph Bottenfield, a retired laundry owner, are the 1928 starters living in Nelson. Jim Bargen, a retired farmer, was a member of that team and also still lives in Nelson. Actually, this year marks the first time a Nelson team has earned its state tourney ticket through eliminations. The 1926 title club was among a wide-open field of 339 competing teams paying their own expenses. Nelson's last district championship until last week's win over Loomis was sometime in the early 1940's, missing a state tourney berth in regional competition, according to Gumaer. Nelson's route to a possible state championship promises to be rugged. The Tigers open Thursday at noon against Shickley. the season-long Class D ratings leader. Litchfield, the No. 2seeded team is in the same bracket.

"The key to our success this year has been our overall balance in scoring, rebounding and good bench strength," Gumaer believes.

drouth. Gurnaer piloted the 1967 Naponee team into the state Class D semifinals, losing to unbeaten Sprague-Martell. Naponee also had been unbeaten until the semifinals. Both small schools closed their doors later that spring.

Although Nelson has endured a 49-year state tourney

Litchfield hasn't waited as long as Nelson before returning to the state tourney in Lincoln. But the school's last appearance was 1938.

Sterling last qualified when it won the state championship. in 1969 and Shickley's last appearance was a state championship effort the following year in 1970.

Sidney St. Pat's qualified two years ago, Wilsonville in 1969, Elgin in 1968 and Ponca in 1963.

Here's a look at this year's Class D state tourney field: Sidney St. Pat's (22-1)

Joe Cortney (6-3) averages 11 points and 12 rebounds. Jim

This year's group of seniors have won 63 games during the past three prosperous seasons for the Irish. Randy Fahey, a 6-3 junior all-state candidate, leads a balanced attack with 20-point and 10-rebound averages.

Scott Fehringer (6-1) contributes 11 points and 8 rebounds a game. All three are seniors. Mike Deaver, a 5-11 junior, is St. Pat's other starter, averaging eight points. Coach Chuck Perone, a Hiram Scott

Heaton (6-1) supports 10-point and 7-rebound averages and

College graduate, owns a 97-16 career record. Litchfield (19-1)

Coach Jim Janski, a 1968 Kearney State College graduate, believes 5-9 Brad Howard and 6-9 Bruce Hird, a pair of all-state candidates, "could play for anybody."

Hird, the tallest player in the state tourney field, intimidates Trojan opponents. This season he's blocked 198 shots. almost 10 blocks per game. He's also collected more than 400 rebounds this season and 950 during his varsity career.

Hird averages 15.6 points and 21.3 rebounds per game, Howard, a 4-year starter, has scored more than 1,000 career points and owns the school record in assists with 475. Other Trojans score well, too. Juniors Joe Lucas and Dick Wardyn average 15.8 and 15.6 points, respectively. Both also own double figure rebound averages. Mick Unick, a 5-9 senior, is the other regular.

Janski has a 74-26 career record. Shickley (23-3)

All three of Shickley's three losses this season were inflicted by Friend, the third-seeded team in the Class C state tourney

Coach Richard Ideus, a 1968 Peru State College graduate with a 131-36 career record and one state title, emphasizes balanced scoring. That's reflected in the following point averages - senior guard Stan Dowdy (17), senior center Brad Schweitzer (15), senior swingman Bill Anderson (14), senior forward Rich Dondlinger (10) and junior guard Mike Lichti (5).

The 6-5, 200-pound Dondlinger and 6-4, 230-pound Schweitzer are solid rebounders, averaging more than 10 apiece.

Elgin (18-3)

Only seven points separated Elgin from an unbeaten season. The Eagles have lost by four to Clearwater, by two to Bartlett and by one to Petersburg.

Rollie Huffman, a 6-0 senior forward, is the scoring leader with a 15.9 average. John Miller, a 5-7, 130-pound guard, averages 12.8 points.

Other regulars Dan Kuester (6-0), Mike Kinney (5-10) and Steve Heithoff (6-0) combine for 21 points per game for the defensive-minded Eagles. Coach Glenn Fiihr, a William Penn (Iowa) College ### graduate, has a 32-23 career record. Wilsonville (20-4)

Coach Doug Fastenau accomplished a rarity - a state tournament team in his first year of coaching after graduating from Chadron State College last spring.

Three of the Wildcats' four losses came against Class C competition. Most impressive victory was 68-53 decision over rated Beaver City.

Randy Preslee, a 5-11 forward, who jumps center, is allstate candidate with 17.4 scoring and 13.2 rebounding averages. He's also an A-plus student. Three other starters support twin figure scoring averages - 5-11 Dan Elwood (14.3), 6-0 Brad Ballou (14.0) and 5-10 Ron Pywell (10.9).

Ken Ankenman, a 5-8 guard, contributes almost eight points

Ponca (17-4)

Class D basketball followers should recognize coach Larry Buhl, a 1959 Wayne State College graduate. He coached Beaver Crossing to the 1964 state Class D championship and has a 208-122 career record.

Buhl considers 5-10 senior guard Bob Curry definite all-state material, noting that Curry's "leadership as well as basketball ability have made an otherwise mediocre group into winners."

Curry is the team's defensive leader and floor general. He averages 15.2 points a game. "When the game gets tight," says Buhl, "Bob plays his best basketball."

Kelly Knerl, a 6-3 senior, is the scoring leader with an 18.4 average. None of Ponca's other three regulars averages more than six points a game.

Neison (17-4)

After a season-opening overtime loss to Deshler. Nelson has lost twice to Class C's highly-regarded Alma and once to Shickley (71-57).

Six-three Dave Gebers and 6-2 Roger Biltoft are the Tiger leaders. Gebers averages 16 points and 9 rebounds a game and Biltoft 15 points and 9 rebounds.

Lorrell Peterson, a 6-1 junior center, averages 11 points and 8 rebounds a game. Mitch Walker, Rick Mazour, Steve Gebers and Nick Biltoft share the other two starting spots.

Gumaer has a 145-72 career coaching record. Sterling (15-6)

The Jets were district tournament "giant killers," knocking off highly-rated Adams and Filley before handling Cedar Bluffs in regional competition.

Another NU Season

It's hard to find much fault with the recently-completed season coach Joe Cipriano's Nebraska basketball team experienced in the Big Eight.

It wasn't a championship year, yet a fourth-place finish was probably where the Huskers rightfully belonged, viewing the en-

After attending the league's annual pre-season tournament in late December in Kansas City, Mo., we probably (as it turned out) were overly generous in predicting Nebraska to finish second behind the eventual league champion, Kansas. That was based on Nebraska dropping a 63-62 verdict in the final 12 seconds to KU in a semifinal match.

While the Huskers gave a tremendous effort in that contest, it was an accurate foreshadowing of the future.

Nebraska lost two overtime games in league play and both were at home (to Oklahoma and to Kansas). The Huskers also dropped two one-pointers - at Colorado and at Kansas State.

When you keep faltering in the close ones, it's hard to remain in title contention. Kansas demonstrated this year as it did last year, that the team that wins the close contests will be the champion.

Highs, Lows

Nevertheless, here are what we consider the main highlights of this year's Nebraska' season and next season's out-

BEST GAMES - As far as victories, the 68-61 win at Oklahoma had to be the most impressive conference win of the season. It proved Nebraska could win away from the NU Coliseum and at the same time, it kept the Huskers unbeaten and in first place. As far as losses, it is doubtful if any game had more drama and excitement than the two narrow losses to Kansas, the Kansas City game and the 79-77 double overtime affair which ended the Lincoln season last Wednesday.

WORST GAME — again, no question. The 72-44 debacle at Kansas, where Nebraska may have performed as poorly in a league game as in the 12 years Cipriano has been in Lincoln. The nonconference December loss at home to San Jose State was

BIGGEST SURPRISE — The fine play from sophomore Rickey Harris and freshman Eric Coard. Harris, a forward, and Coard, a guard, undoubtedly will be key participants on next

BIGGEST DISAPPOINTMENT — the continuing saga in the Ron Taylor case. Cipriano eventually was more willing to discuss the 6-10 sophomore center, but it still remained a troublesome situation throughout the season. Taylor was a big favorite with the students, yet never played much except in isolated cases

BEST INDIVIDUAL EFFORT — a tie between the 40-point game Jerry Fort enjoyed against Missouri in Lincoln and the constant hustling performances by senior Steve Erwin. In setting a Nebraska one-game scoring record, Fort was the major factor in Nebraska's topping the Tigers, 80-77. But Erwin, who admittedly possessed less natural talent than the players he faced each game, played with such intensity that he usually overcame the superior talent.

BIGGEST 1975-76 NEED - finding a big man for the frontline. It could be Ron Taylor or, perhaps, a junior college prospect but the Huskers desperately need a big man to provide more rebounding strength.

BIGGEST 1975-76 STRENGTH — NU may have the best three guards in the Big Eight next season. Fort, senior-to-be Steve Willis and Coard make NU set in the backline.

1976 OUTLOOK-if the frontline scoring problem can be corrected, Nebraska will be a definite threat for the Big Eight title. The soon-to-be-released nonconference schedule should more than adequately prepare the Huskers for the 14-game league schedule.

Sidney's 18-4 Western Conference championship club will open the Class B tournament against 17-4 Crete at noon Thursday at Pershing

After watching the Red Raiders there, Sidney fans can head for Lincoln East High School Thursday night for top-seeded St. Pat's Class D matchup with Sterling at 9 o'clock.

Sidney is the only Nebraska community with two schools represented in the state tour-

Last year, Class B West Point Central

Catholic and Class C West Point divided that community's loyalties by playing their state tourney openers at the same time.

West Point CC earned a repeat state tourney trip, gaining Class B's top seed with a 22-2 record. Only six other teams return from last year's 32-team state tourney field.

Defending state champion Omaha Central earned Class A's top seed with a 21-1 record and will open the tourney Thursday at 2 p.m. against Norfolk after Lincoln Southeast and Omaha Burke collide at noon at the Coliseum.

Class A's North Platte and Omaha Burke. Class B's Crete and Ord and Class C's Grant are other returnees from 1974's state tourney.

Class B offers one its most interesting tournaments in recent years with season-long ratings leader Omaha Tech competing out of Class A for the first time in the athletic-rich school's history.

Tech is the seventh-seeded Class B entry with its 18-5 record. The Trojans, who played only four Class B opponents this season, open ### against second-seeded Ord at 9 p.m. Thursday.

Tech's bracket is power-packed. Rated Minden and Aurora are paired in Thursday night's other opening-round matchup.

The NSAA announced Sunday it has altered its semifinal format from previous years. Class A and B semifinals are set for 2 p.m. and 9 p.m. Friday instead of noon and 7 p.m. as they were in the past.

Classes C and D now will occupy the noon and 7 p.m. semifinal slots on Friday, splitting the Coliseum and Pershing sites with Classes A

Southeast's opening-round test against Burke will mark the second meeting of the season between the two schools. Burke scored a 66-54 win over the Knights Feb. 1 in Omaha.

'We hope to make up for that one," Southeast coach Wally McNaught said Sunday. 'We've sort of prided ourselves on good ball handling, but we committed 33 turnovers up there against them.

"We seemed to be able to break their press,

but couldn't convert," he added.

McNaught called Saturday night's 50-42 Southeast win over Lincoln Northeast in the district finals "a big hurdle to clear. I hope we're more relaxed because from here on is the gravy in one context."

The Southeast coach credited his players for year-round work in helping the Knights earn their first state tourney ticket in 15 years. "It sounds like a fairy tale, but these kids can be a model for a lot of young kids who want to follow in their footsteps," McNaught said of

"As soon as basketball was over last year, they started working out for this season,' McNaught noted. "They played and lifted weights during the spring.

"They helped organize that high school league at the Y last summer," he added. "In fact, we had four teams playing in that league. "Of course, these kids were sneaking down to other places last fall to play," McNaught said. "They just wanted to get on a court. They've worked hard. The self-discipline has paid off."

Doane Captures NIAC Indoor

Sports

Crete - Two freshmen, Fred and high hurdle events. Falkner and Keith Heedum, sparked Doane College to its second straight Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Indoor track meet win here Sunday night.

The Tigers won every field event except the shot put, and captured wins in five track events, while Nebraska Wesleyan placed second with five wins in the track and field combined.

NWU's Lee Richardson set a NIAC indoor record in the 100 in a winning time of 2:15.1 and captured the 600 to pace the meet's double winners.

Falkner, a former Omaha Tech standout, won the 440 in 50.6, and took honors in the 300yard dash in the time of :32.4. Doane's Mike Ulmer was the other double winner capturing both the 60-yard intermediate

NWU's Martin Ends Career

Cleveland, Ohio - Nebraska Wesleyan's heavyweight wrestler Sam Martin, who scored the first victory and points for the Plainsmen in history in a national tournament, lost in the consolation quarterfinals to L. Scharer of Wilkes College Saturday.

Martin ended his season record at 14-5 and his career record at 50-22-5, in the NCAA division III tournament here this weekend.

Milt Gross, also of Doane broke the NIAC triple jump record with a distance of 47' 6" Heedum placed first in the long jump and second in the pole vault, behind Doane's Craig Fleming, who won the event with a 14-3 mark. Wesleyan winners included

Jim French in the 880; Cliff Karthauser, two mile in 9:30.4: and Dave Folkerts in the shot put with a heave of 48-101/4. Other winners included Dave Cloeter of Concordia in the mile, and Midland's Ken Wilson in the 60-yard dash.

'Our quality people are in the field events and we expected to score well," said Doane coach Fred Beile. "We scored in every event, and I feel that our men did a good job in every event." "For being freshmen, I feel that Falkner and Heedum did a fine job," said Beile. "And Ulmer has really come along well for us. Last year I could have beat him in the hurdles. But he's a competitor and he worked hard to improve."

Beile also cited jumper Pat Phillips, who won the high jump with a leap of 6-101/2 commenting, "it's a good way for a senior to close out his indoor track career.'

Pointing out the fact that only two meet records fell Beile admitted, "it's getting to the point where the meet records are so good it's going to take some super performances to break

"For a small conference, this is one heck of a good track league. You just can't slop through. You have to work hard to win. If Hastings or Nebraska Wesleyan were in another conference they might have won," said Beile, "and that's what makes winning this conference meet such a pleasure."

The win was the fifth for Doane in the six years the meet has been held. Nebraska Wesleyan, the NIAC outdoor champion won the indoor version in 1972.

NWU Spring Sports Begin

The Nebraska Wesleyan baseball and golf seasons begin Monday as the Plainsmen travel to Texas.

The baseball team will play five consecutive double-headers during the NWU spring break. The initial contest will be against Wiley College, with twin bills to follow against East Texas Baptist, Austin, LeTourneau, and Jarvis Christian.

NWU coach Ron Bachman is optimistic about this year's baseball season since he has a solid nucleus returning from last year's 23-14 NIAC champion ball club.

Gene Boeka, who hit .409 last year John Crose, who holds most NWU fielding records, assist leader Ross Stephensen, pitcher Dean DeBoer and left fielder Dave Loos all graduated.

But three starting pitchers and four other field regulars should be able to fill the gaps. "This is the best group of athletes I've ever had for close talent," said 11-year coaching veteran Bachman. Top returning pitchers include Larry Abel, who was ranked nationally in the NCAA Division with a 10-2 record. The lefthander also posted a 1.15 earned run average. Rightfielder Bob Blake, who hit .350 last year is another returning Plainsman. The golf squad will face Austin College, East Texas Baptist, LeTourneau and Jarvis Christian.

This year's team has only one senior, Dan Williams returning from the club which finished 7-8-1 last year.

Ponca Sterling Nelson Hoping To Be First And Last Coliseum 'D' Winner

By RANDY YORK

Prep Sports Editor In the first state high school basketball tournament played in Nebraska's Coliseum in 1926, Nelson won the Class D championship. Nelson (population 700) has a chance to be the Coliseum's last state Class D champion this weekend, too, since the 1976 tourney will be moved to the new University of Nebraska Fieldhouse now in the later stages of construction at the State Fairgrounds.

In the 49 years between the first and last state tournament at the Coliseum, Nelson basketball fans have eaten a lot of pop-

Their cheers have been absent from the Coliseum for almost half a century. Ironically, that 1926 championship was the last time Nelson qualified for the state tournament "Two of the starters on that 1926 team are still living in Nelson," Nelson coach Wayne Gumaer points out. Harry Snyder, a retired Nuckolls County machine operator, and Ralph Bottenfield, a retired laundry owner, are the 1926 starters living in Nelson. Jim Bargen, a retired farmer, was a member of that team and also still lives in Nelson.

Actually, this year marks the first time a Nelson team has earned its state tourney ticket through eliminations. The 1926 title club was among a wide-open field of 339 competing teams paying their own expenses. Nelson's last district championship until last week's win over Loomis was sometime in the early 1940's, missing a state tourney berth in regional competition, according to Gumaer. Nelson's route to a possible state championship promises to be rugged. The Tigers open Thursday at noon against Shickley, the season-long Class D ratings leader. Litchfield, the No. 2-

seeded team is in the same bracket. 'The key to our success this year has been our overall balance in scoring, rebounding and good bench strength," Although Nelson has endured a 49-year state tourney

Class D semifinals, losing to unbeaten Sprague-Martell. Naponee also had been unbeaten until the semifinals. Both small schools closed their doors later that spring.

Litchfield hasn't waited as long as Nelson before returning to the state tourney in Lincoln. But the school's last appearance was 1938.

Sterling last qualified when it won the state championship in 1969 and Shickley's last appearance was a state championship effort the following year in 1970.

Ponca (17-4)

Class D basketball followers should recognize coach Larry Buhl, a 1959 Wayne State College graduate. He coached Beaver Crossing to the 1964 state Class D championship and has a 208-122 career record. Buhl considers 5-10 senior guard Bob Curry definite all-state material, noting that Curry's "leadership as well as basketball ability have made an otherwise mediocre group into winners." Curry is the team's defensive leader and floor general. He averages 15.2 points a game. "When the game gets tight," says Buhl, "Bob plays his best basketball." Kelly Knerl, a 6-3 senior, is the scoring leader with an 18.4 average. None of Ponca's other three regulars averages more ### than six points a game.

Nelson (17-4) After a season-opening overtime loss to Deshler, Nelson has lost twice to Class C's highly-regarded Alma and once to Shickley (71-57).

Six-three Dave Gebers and 6-2 Roger Biltoft are the Tiger leaders. Gebers averages 16 points and 9 rebounds a game and Biltoft 15 points and 9 rebounds.

Lorrell Peterson, a 6-1 junior center, averages 11 points and 8 rebounds a game. Mitch Walker, Rick Mazour, Steve Gebers and Nick Biltoft share the other two starting spots. Gumaer has a 145-72 career coaching record.

Kings Fall To Pistons

· DETROIT (UPI) - John Mengelt's 30 points propelled Detroit to a 106-99 NBA victory over the Kansas-City Omaha Kings Sunday night and raised the Pistons' cushion for a final playoff spot to one and one-half games over the Milwaukee

Bucks Playing without all-star center Bob Lanier starting forward Howard Porter and Willie Norwood, all out with injuries, the Pistons rallied from a 14-point deficit in the second quarter to pull ahead 80-74, at the end of the third period Dave Bing's 14 points and

Mengelt's 12 points in the third period sparked a Pistons surge which broke a three-game losing streak Despite Nate Archibald's 30 points, Detroit handed Kansas City-Omaha its second successive defeat

BASKETBALL

The field for the National Commissioners Invitational Tournament was completed with the addition of Arizona, Purdue, 16-10, Missouri, 18-8; Drake and Bowling Green, 17-9. Other teams already selected for the Commissioners tourney include Tennessee, 18-7; Southern California 18-7; and East Carolina, 19-8. The tourney will begin action Thursday at Louisville, with Arizona, 20-6 meeting East Carolina, 19-8.

Seven teams were added to the NIT (National Invitational Tournament in New York City). Accepting bids to complete the 16-team field for the 38th annual tourney which begins Saturday were Memphis State, 20-6; Pittsburgh, 17-10; Lafayette, 22-4; Manhattan, 13-11; Connecticut, 18-9; Providence, 17-10, and St. Peters, 15-11. Already in the field were Princeton, 17-10; Oregon, 18-8; Southern Illinois, Oral Roberts, 19-7; Massachussetts, Holy Cross, St. John's, Clemson and South Carolina. Defending champion Purdue is playing in the Commissioner's tournament this year and North Carolina State, which failed to get an NCAA tourney bid, turned down an offer to be the No. 1 seed in the NIT.

Kansas State, Maryland, Michigan and Texas El-Paso were selected to compete in the NCAA tournament completing the 32-team field. The NCAA pick of Maryland meant that defending champion North Carolina State will not be in the tourney. Maryland which had beaten N.C. State twice during the regular season was upset by State in the ACC tournament Friday night.

North Carolina State coach Norm Sloan said his team declined an invitation to the NIT. He said that State had been offered the first seed in the New York tourney, but to his surprise the team voted not to accept the bid Seven teams, including Southeastern Nebraska of Fairbury, swing into action Monday in the Region 9 Junior College Basketball tournament at Casper, Wyo., with the regional champion earning a berth in the national tournament. SE-Fairbury will face Northwest Community College of Powell, Wyo., in the opening tourney game. Drawing a bye is Sheridan College, which was to have played Northeast Nebraska of Norfolk. However, Northeast passed up the tourney spot to participate in a tournament in Alabama.

I'll Bet You Didn't Know

Do you know who holds the all-time college basketball record for getting the most rebounds in one season of . It is not any of the big super stars you might think of first like Wilt Chamberlain or Kareem Abdul-. Answer is Walter Dukes who set the record when he played for Seton Hall in the 1952-53 season with 734 rebounds.

With all the big scores in pro basketball these days, did you ever wonder what the record is for the LOWEST scoring game in the history of the National Basketball Association? . . . It happened Nov. 22. 1950 when the Pistons beat the Lakers 19-18 . . . Believe it or not that was the final score.

If your favorite basketball team wins a few games in a row, you get excited . . . If they win 10 in a row — that's really something . . . If they would win 75 in a row - well. that seems almost unbelievable . . . But what about a team winning more than that? 100 in a row? . . . 150 in a row?...Impossible?

Well, do you know a basketball team once won the amazing total of 159 games in a row? . . . That's the all-time record for any organized team in either high school, college . This recor pro sports . . ord was set by the Passaic (N.J.) high school basketball Between 1919 and 1925 they won 159 consecutive games!

I bet you didn't know . . . that Bourbon Supreme is the world's only charcoal distilled straight bourbon.

Trevino Citrus Winner

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) - Lee Trevino breathed a big sigh of

"I'm just glad nobody made a big move at me," he said. Nobody did.

And Trevino, who seemed to play just as well as needed, fashioned a steady, front-running one-under-par 71 and stalked off with a one-stroke victory and the $40,000 first prize Sunday in the $200,000 Citrus Open Golf Tournament.

"Everybody's gonna say, 'He didn't shoot a great round to win it," Trevino commented.

"Well, I had to shoot three pretty good rounds to get in front.

"I knew what I had to do today. I've won from in front before. I've led all four rounds. It's harder to play good from the lead. It's a lot easier to come from behind, to shoot a low number and come from behind.

"There's a lot more pressure when you're in front. I was just trying to hang on, just trying to keep my head together and hang

"I was lucky nobody made that really big move at me.'

Trevino abandoned his quick quipping, happy-go-lucky role for that of a deadly serious competitor and, by turning back Hale Iwrin's challenge, claimed the 18th official tour triumph of his story-book career with 72hole total of 276, 12 under par on the 6,929-yard Rio Pinar Country Club course.

Special To The Star Kansas City, Mo. - First-round action in the 38th annual National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) basketball tournament starts Monday. Nebraska's entry, Kearney State College, qualified by defeating Hastings College in the District 11 playoff. The Antelopes have a 21-6 record and the victories represent an all-time Kearney mark.

Coach Jerry Hueser, in his fifth year at KSC, is making his second appearance here in four years. The Antelopes last visited Kansas City in 1972 only to lose in the first round to eventual semifinalist Augustana College of Illinois.

Kearney State's only other appearance here was in 1943 when it fell to Pepperdine College of California, also in the initial round.

The Antelopes are paced by forward Tom Kropp whose credentials include a 21-point scoring average. Center Loren Killion is the second leading scorer with an 18-

As a team, Kearney State averages more than 97 points per game - the highest average of any team in the tourney

KSC's opening round foe is Fairmont State College of West Virginia. The Falcons (28-4) are second-seeded. Fairmont State, a perennial power in Atlantic Coast small college basketball, are also ranked second nationally and were top ranked for a brief time. Fairmont State is coached by veteran Joe Retton, who was selected as the NAIA coach-of-the-year in 1968.

One of Fairmont's four losses was to top-ranked and topseeded Kentucky State. Center Bill Lindsey paces the Falcons, scoring at a 25-points-per-game clip. Lindsey has been tabbed on several small college all-American rosters. Sophomores Daryl Gainey and Dave Moore have 18-point averages.

The Falcons average 89 points per contest.

Creighton TrackResults From NIAC To Meet Team Scoring Maryland

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)-The Creighton Bluejays will be matched with No. 2 ranked Maryland in the first round of the NCAA basketball tournament Saturday at Lubbock, Tex.

Maryland, with a record of 24-3, lost to defending NCAA champion 87-85 in the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament Friday night.

The NCAA then selected Maryland as the No. 2 team from the AAC as Creighton's foe in the Midwest Regionals.

Creighton assistant coaches Tom Brosnihan and Mike Caruso scouted Maryland Friday night and a Maryland scout was on hand when Creighton lost to Marquette Saturday night in Creighton head Coach Tom Apke said, "I know their personnel having seen them on television and read about them.'

Kings Fall To Pistons

DETROIT (UPI) - John Mengelt's 30 points propelled Detroit to a 106-99 NBA victory over the Kansas-City Omaha Kings Sunday night and raised the Pistons' cushion for a final playoff spot to one and one-half games over the Milwaukee Bucks.

Playing without all-star center Bob Lanier, starting forward Howard Porter and Willie Norwood, all out with injuries, the Pistons rallied from a 14point deficit in the second quarter to pull ahead, 80-74, at the end of the third period. Dave Bing's 14 points and Mengelt's 12 points in the third period sparked a Pistons' surge which broke a three-game losing streak. Despite Nate Archibald's 30 points, Detroit handed Kansas City-Omaha its

KANSAS CITY (AP) - Champion Kansas, Kansas State and Missouri are the only Big Eight Conference basketball teams with unfinished business.

The rest of the clubs can pack their uniforms away until autumn.

Kansas won the championship, its second in a row, by pulling out of a slow start Saturday and routing Oklahoma 74-63. The Jayhawks now turn their attention to Saturday night's first round game in the National Collegiate Athletic Association playoffs against Notre Dame at Tulsa, Okla.

And the kids from K-State and Missouri, two unlikely clubs for postseason competition if you would believe preseason forecasts, also were plucked Sunday for weekend action.

The second-place Wildcats, a 72-63 victor over Oklahoma State Saturday night, go to Philadelphia Saturday night for a battle with Pennsylvania in the NCAA's East Regional.

Missouri, the third place finisher, faces Purdue Friday night in the Collegiate Commissioners Tournament at Louisville, Ky., even though the Tigers lost to Colorado Saturday night 106-97.

Kansas wound up its regular season 11-3 in the Big Eight and 19-7 over-all. K-State was 10-4 and 18-8 and Missouri 9-5 and

Farm Editor Nebraska's 24 Natural Resource Districts have begun a wide variety of projects that range from major flood control programs to efforts to control

A careful review of the first annual reports on progress shows erosion prevention, floodwater and sediment control, soil conservation and other typical programs in all of the reports.

These farmer-originated programs are usually supplemented by recreation and parks programs, water supply programs, pollution control and sanitary drainage projects as well as wildlife assistance efforts

Most of the districts were heavily involved in tree-planting projects and many made native grass plantings an important part of their land conservation program to prevent wind losses to soils and for pasture improvement programs Inspections Important

Equally important is the inspection of existing projects begun by the predecessor watershed and conservation districts, which were merged into the 24 Natural Resource Districts divisions of government is also a part of NRD operations on many projects. Many times a dam can be built along a county road line eliminating the need for a bridge. The roadway is then constructed on top of the dam creating a scenic, as well as practical, flood control program. Some districts have run into opposition to their efforts from environmental groups who want to leave nature to its own devices. A good example of this is the snagging projects on the Wood River which involved removing dead trees from the river bed.

Thousands of dead elm trees, are falling into rivers, creeks and streams throughout the state, creating an ugly looking mess that has an unfortunate tendency to gather under bridges whenever it floods.

Dead trees jam outlets to dams, the space beneath bridges and plug culverts, creating huge flooded areas that crossroads, often wash them out and interrupt travel for weeks until the road and bridges can be repaired at tremendous cost to county governments.

Spotlight on Agriculture

By DOMINICK COSTELLO

Farm Editor There are two young farm leaders rising in Nebraska that you ought to know about.

Eugene Glock of Rising City is taking the tiny Nebraska Soybean Association toward a larger role in the state as he strives to expand the organization and get funds for research and foreign marketing

Allen Kreuscher of DeWitt is doing much the same thing with the Nebraska Corn Growers Associator

Both men are selling memberships at $15 per year, which is cheap at the price because it provides farmers with a lot of good information on their favorite crop via newsletters from the national organizations It also provides funds for promotion and research in a small way

It has always bothered me a little that crop-related groups don't develop nearly the strength the livestock groups do.

Agriculture needs all the voices it can get to be heard. Farm leaders also need the support of the individual farmer.

Don't call your organization's president and tell him or her to write to your congressman or senator without backing up that letter with one of your own.

The most powerful weapon in the halls of Congress is still the letter written on notebook paper or tablet paper on the kitchen tables of America.

I have decided to share with you my magic plan to solve all the problems of the grain farmer. It isn't all that magical, but if I don't brag it up some of vou won't like it. I would propose we eliminate all farm programs designed to support crop prices and replace them with one simple program. Have the secretary of agriculture set the price the government will pay for any commodity produced on Jan. 1 unless it is a crop like winter wheat which is planted in the fall, then set the price on Aug. 1.

Under my plan the government then would offer to buy for the next 12 months any corn offered for a fixed price based on No 2 corn For example, set the price at $3 a bushel. A farmer would know for sure he could always get $3 a bushel for his corn on that year. Any other buyer obviously would have to buy it at a higher price or he couldn't get it unless the government gave it to him

Write in provisions that the price must be set at least at 90% of the 1910 parity formula. If it is not set on the date in the law. the price will automatically be 110% of the price the preceding year. That will eliminate those delays we seem to have on decisions. Put in a provision that the government cannot resell the grain in the United States for less than 110% of the purchase price unless it declares an emergency in the county where it is sold. Feeders should be allowed to buy it from the government in lots as small as 1.-

000 bushels. Establish official government warehouses in every county in the nation as a designated delivery point. The grain could be delivered on any normal business day of the year. A certificate of delivery would be obtained at the elevator and taken to the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office where a check would be made out immediately.

There would be no allotments. no planting limitations other than the price. Farmers could plant any crop they wished based on which was most profitable to them under current price structures

No loan program would be required because the farmer could borrow from a bank on all of his grain instead of just part of it as is the case under current government programs.

The government could sell the

Five Killed In Nebraska In Weekend Accidents

From Press Reports Five persons died as a result of three separate accidents in Nebraska, one Friday night and two Saturday. Two Ainsworth teen-agers were killed Friday night when the car in which they were riding struck the rear of a semi-trailer truck on Highway 20, about onehalf mile east of Ainsworth

The victims were identified as Kathy Allen, 14, and Patrick Jefferson, 15. They were passengers in an auto driven by Randy Dillon, 18, of Ainsworth. Hospitalized were Dillon and three other passengers-Mike Jefferson, 18, Becky Allen, 15, and John Nicholson, 12, all of later was transferred to an Omaha hospital.

Early Saturday, Nathan Becerra, 24, and his 23-year-old wife, Debra, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, died in a two-car collision on Interstate 480 near the Martha Street exit in Omaha.

Police said the Becerra car was southbound on the interstate when it was in collision with a northbound auto driven by Kaye Chapple of Omaha.

Omaha police reports said the Chapple car apparently went out of control and left the ground as it crossed the median, landing on top of the Becerra car.

Later Saturday, a man iden-Ainsworth. The Nicholson youth tified as James Lee Gasaway, 43, of Westmorland, Calif., was killed in a one-car accident on Nebraska 17 about a mile south of Culbertson.

Troopers said Gasaway and Ernest Melchert of McCook were in a car traveling north on the highway when the auto apparently went out of control and Gasaway was thrown from the vehicle; Melchert was hospitalized with head lacerations.

The deaths raised Nebraska's 1975 traffic fatality toll to 45, compared with 46 at this time

The system would also represent a departure from the original SUN concept of operating separate learning centers to supplement the college at-home course study.

The SUN Advisory Council has favored the separate approach, to serve students who live far from traditional campuses.

Varner, who hatched the SUN idea and also serves as president of its regional outgrowth, the University of Mid-America (UMA), made the comments in a hearing by the Legislature's Appropriations Committee on the SUN requested almost $158,-000 in state tax funds for its course delivery system.

Varner also stepped firmly ahead on another idea he'd only referred to previously, that SUN should deliver all liberal arts courses to Nebraska's technical community colleges.

For example, vocationaltechnical students in two-year programs on each of Nebraska's 11 tech college campuses could all take their freshman English course from SUN, which uses television, newspaper lessons, audio cassettes and printed materials for self-paced study.

Varner has said such an operation would offer "high quality" instruction, eliminate unnecessary duplication of courses on Nebraska's postsecondary campuses and free vocational instructors from teaching academic courses.

He also promised a tax savings, explaining that SUN courses can be delivered for slightly more than $20 per credit hour, or half the general fund appropriation to the state colleges.

That offers a coincidental reply to Appropriations Committee Chairman Richard Marvel's question of whether Nebraska can afford to support 22 separate campuses as they presently

"Any subject, other than a strictly lab approach, could be taught" through SUN, Varner said. And some courses, "properly developed," could be used four to five years before updating would be required, he

Noting the millions of dollars the federal government has invested in SUN and UMA, Varner said the experimental "open learning" project "does have enormous national significance." And he suggested that same potential should be applied for Nebraskans.

Science Group, AEC Hike Aid To UNL Project

The National Science Foundation and the Atomic Energy Commission have pledged an additional $50,000 each to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln research project that may help evaluate radiation hazards and lead to radiotherapeutic treatment of cancer. The project, headed by UNL physics professor Robert Katz has received $400,000 from the two agencies over the past eight

Katz said he believes his research could develop a dosimeter, which measures doses of radioactivity, for use by radiologists treating cancer patients by other, special radiations.

Five Killed In Nebraska In Weekend Accidents

Five persons died as a result of three separate accidents in Nebraska, one Friday night and two Saturday.

Two Ainsworth teen-agers were killed Friday night when the car in which they were riding struck the rear of a semi-trailer truck on Highway 20, about onehalf mile east of Ainsworth.

The victims were identified as Kathy Allen, 14, and Patrick Jefferson, 15. They were passengers in an auto driven by Randy Dillon, 18, of Ainsworth.

Hospitalized were Dillon and three other passengers-Mike Jefferson, 18, Becky Allen, 15, and John Nicholson, 12, all of Ainsworth. The Nicholson youth tified as James Lee Gasaway, 43, later was transferred to an Omaha hospital.

Early Saturday, Nathan Becerra, 24, and his 23-year-old wife, Debra, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, died in a two-car collision on Interstate 480 near the Martha Street exit in Omaha.

Police said the Becerra car was southbound on the interstate when it was in collision with a northbound auto driven by Kaye Chapple of Omaha. Omaha police reports said the Chapple car apparently went out of control and left the ground as it crossed the median, landing on top of the Becerra car. Later Saturday, a man idenof Westmorland, Calif., was killed in a one-car accident on Nebraska 17 about a mile south of Culbertson.

Troopers said Gasaway and Ernest Melchert of McCook were in a car traveling north on the highway when the auto apparently went out of control and

Gasaway was thrown from the vehicle; Melchert was hospitalized with head

The deaths raised Nebraska's 1975 traffic fatality toll to 45, compared with 46 at this time

SUN Students May Earn Credits At Public Colleges

State University of Nebraska students in the future could possibly enroll for SUN credit courses on each of the 22 public college campuses in Nebraska, as well as using the four SUN learning centers.

That "would let us coordinate continuing education programs through the existing institutions," NU President D.B. Varner said.

The system would also represent a departure from the original SUN concept of operating separate learning centers to supplement the college-at-home course study.

The SUN Advisory Council has favored the separate approach, to serve students who live far from traditional campuses.

Varner, who hatched the SUN idea and also serves as president of its regional outgrowth, the University of Mid-America (UMA), made the comments in a hearing by the Legislature's Appropriations Committee on the SUN requested almost $158,-000 in state tax funds for its course delivery system.

Varner also stepped firmly ahead on another idea he'd only referred to previously, that SUN should deliver all liberal arts courses to Nebraska's technical community colleges.

For example, vocationaltechnical students in two-vear programs on each of Nebraska's 11 tech college campuses could all take their freshman English course from SUN, which uses television, newspaper lessons, audio cassettes and printed materials for self-paced study.

Varner has said such an operation would offer "high quality" instruction, eliminate unnecessary duplication of courses on Nebraska's postsecondary campuses and free vocational instructors from teaching academic courses.

He also promised a tax savings, explaining that SUN

"However dedicated and resourceful, the commissioners and their staff need the support and help of every citizen who shares their concern for wildlife support habitat," Mrs. Bowen said.

Mrs. Bowen noted the Nebraska river basins statewide attitude study in 1973 found that 60% of Nebraskans consider it "absolutely necessary or very important" to provide water for wildlife and recreation.

Science Group, AEC Hike Aid To UNL Project

The National Science Foundation and the Atomic Energy Commission have pledged an additional $50,000 each to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln research project that may help evaluate radiation hazards and lead to radiotherapeutic treatment of cancer.

The project, headed by UNL physics professor Robert Katz has received $400,000 from the two agencies over the past eight years. Katz said he believes his research could develop a dosimeter, which measures doses of radioactivity, for use by radiologists treating cancer patients by other, special radiations.

Demo Leaders To Fight Crossover Primary Bill

The Democratic State Central Committee, meeting Sunday in Lincoln, voted unanimously to fight Ralston Sen. Jerry Koch's LB120 for a constitutional amendment allowing crossover primary elections and primaries in September instead of May, according to Dick White, state chairman.

Crossover primaries would let party members and independents vote on the party ballot of their choice.

The committee also reaffirmed support for keeping corporations out of farming, but did anticorporate farming bills that have been introduced and heard in the Legislature. White said.

Because of bad weather, the members present put off picking a site for the 1976 state Democratic convention. White said it will be decided at the next quarterly meeting on June 8 in Omaha.

The choice now is between Omaha and Kearney. The convention will be June 26-27.

A final draft of an affirmative action plan for the state party was adopted. A finished plan was required for approval by the not discuss specifically the three national party by March 15.

Mike's brother and "partner" in the hog business, Dan, was second high junior individual in a judging contest held as part of the show. The reserve champion purebred, also a Hampshire gilt, was exhibited by Dave McReynolds of Ashland. His wife Judy had the third place purebred.

The top judging team in a contest among juniors was the Waverly Future Farmers of America chapter. Individual honors went to Scott Lorenson, a member of the Waverly team.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your lirst name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
